

WARNING!

DANGEROUS ART!

IU's administration will not allow YOU to see this artwork by Palestinian-American artist, Samia Halaby.

On Dec. 20th, IU cancelled a retrospective of Halaby's work scheduled to open at the campus art museum on Feb.10.

The exhibit had been planned for 3 years. Only a few months ago it was widely promoted as a major arts event on campus.

No official announcement of the cancellation was ever made.

No apology was made to Samia Halaby or to the museum staff who devoted hundreds of hours of work to the exhibit.

All IU will say publicly is this: they "canceled the exhibit due to concerns about guaranteeing the integrity of the exhibit for its duration." Huh?

LET'S DEMAND ANSWERS

President Whitten and Provost Shrivastav:

Why was the Samia Halaby exhibit cancelled?

Why was no official announcement made?

Is there a commitment to free expression and academic freedom on this campus or not?

What will happen to the funds raised for this exhibit?

What will be put in the gallery space instead?

Why should we expect artists to honor our invitations to campus if we cannot honor our invitations to them?

Will you apologize to Samia Halaby and reinstate her exhibit?
